

'Tis the Season for Nominations!

Would you like to get involved in a different part of the church's life in the coming year? The Nominations Committee begins its work this month and is looking for volunteers to serve on a number of the church's committees. You can help by letting us know what you would like to do!

We are especially looking for people to fill openings in these areas:

Hospitality –Do you have a gift for welcoming and serving people? Do you like to work in or around the kitchen?

Finance — Do you enjoy working with numbers? Would you like to be part of making recommendations about the church's financial policies and strategies?

Board of Trustees — Do you have experience in business or construction? Would you like to know more about how the church's buildings and properties are maintained and improved?

Communications — Do you have ideas about how the church could more effectively speak out in the community—or the congregation could communicate with one another? Do you have skills in websites, design, publicity, or marketing?

Service to the community and the world — The work of the committees in these areas is being re-configured. This is a great time to bring your ideas and energy for projects, commitments and advocacy that put our faith into action.

If you're interested or have questions, please speak with Church Council Chair Bruce Hallinan or Pastor Kathi (pastorkathi@campbellunited.org).

Kathi's Pastoral Reflections

A Season of Growth

My friend Scott Hafner is part of a family of winemakers in the Alexander Valley. I asked him about this year's harvest. "It's good," he said. "A little bit on the early side, because of the weather. And it will be a smaller harvest than the last couple of years."

Why? What did they do differently this year? Nothing. They're no worse at farming than they were last year, nor better. Every farmer knows that each year brings its own vicissitudes — of weather, soil conditions, insects, growth. Some years the plants produce sweet and plentiful fruit; some years they just don't. And no amount of harder work or worrying over them will make them any better. You just have to take the good years — and the bad years — as they come. You hold on, trusting that the next season will bring something new.

Maybe the same thing is true of churches.

In this church, you have seen many seasons come and go. You've had some years that felt like the church was holding on against storms of loss and hardship. You've held on when it wasn't clear what the future held. You have been faithful. You have continued to do the work of being the people of God in this place, even when it was hard to do that.

And right now we are experiencing a season of fruitfulness. There are many signs of vitality: our Sunday School and youth groups are full, worship attendance is higher than it has been in some time, our finances are solid. We could look for things we are doing differently, but it is much more truthful to just give thanks for the grace and faithfulness of God, through every season.

One of the things I am most excited about in this season of growth is the presence of three interns among us for the year.

Joshua Sulaiman, who you may already know, has begun a nine-month term as "Pastoral Intern" at Campbell UMC. He'll spend about 15 hours a week in this work, as part of his work toward a Master of Divinity degree at Pacific School of Religion and toward his own ordination. You'll see Joshua taking leadership roles alongside Pastors Kathi and Daniel in all areas of the church's life.

Joe Liverseed and Milena Lilles will be our Emerging Leader interns for this year as well. Each of them will develop a project to connect other young adults with a new church program that he/she will lead.

All three of these internship positions have been made possible by special gifts offered to the church by congregation members. I am deeply grateful. And deeply hopeful — for all that lies ahead of us.

With love and blessings, Kathi ❖

Estate Planning

Estate planning is essential to the health of a family. Organizing and preparing for changes in our lives minimize conflicts and confusion. Now is a good time to think about what you want to happen and how it will happen. Estate planning is a process of discussing various topics with your attorney and family. Four areas to consider are:

- Discuss with your attorney the best way for you to handle your estate: with a will or living trust.
- During the process of setting up your estate plan, be sure to include a durable power of attorney for business matters and one for health matters.

- One of the essential things in this planning is making sure you state clearly how you feel about life-prolonging measures.

- Make sure you include long-term care in your planning.

- Have you included your church among those designated to share in your estate?

Anyone can give an endowment gift. Any size gift may be made to the Endowment Fund. Consider doing this as part of your estate planning.

Building a Culture of Gratitude

Do you notice all the work that is done by volunteers around the church? There's a lot of it: every week congregation members do small and large jobs that make a difference for the rest of us. We know "the church" should thank these people — but who is "the church?" It's all of us!

There's a new Gratitude Board in the lobby of the Fellowship Hall where you are invited to post a note every time you notice something that makes you want to say "thank you." Maybe you have a name to attach to that gratitude, or maybe you don't — either way is Okay.

Write on the board, read the board, use it to communicate your appreciation for all the good folks who make this Campbell UMC campus and community a good place to be. ❖

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED AT THE 2015 GENERAL CONFERENCE IN PORTLAND

Every four years, delegates from the entire international United Methodist Church gather to consult and make policy for the Church. In 2016—May 10-20—the General Conference will meet in Portland, Oregon. A large number of volunteers will be needed in Portland. This is a great opportunity to watch a fascinating institutional process. It's also an opportunity to be part of an offering of hospitality to our United Methodist sisters and brothers from all over the world. Pastor Daniel and Pastor Kathi are both planning to be there for at least part of the Conference.

If you'd like to volunteer, you can do so online at <http://westernjurisdictionumc.org/gc2016/> ❖

Campbell UMC Snapshots

An Historical Skip Around Campus

On a recent Sunday morning, Pastor Kathi mentioned that Hurricane Katrina hit the U.S. ten years ago. I recalled a chapter in our 25-year history.

Campbell UMC responded to an appeal by UMMVIM (United Methodist Volunteers in Mission) to help restore damaged homes in Dulac, Louisiana. Leaders Greg Knepp and Cheryl Olson, who was our Director of Christian Education, organized the mission trip with Pastors Alan Jones and Linda Pickens-Jones. The theme was "Do Love in Dulac," and Gene and Elaine Hill had theme tee shirts made. In February of 2008, our intergenerational team of 42 youth and adults spent a week working in homes in Dulac. ## Circuit Writer Rev. Larry LaPierre Offering Christ To The World

One of my clergy friends was remarkable in his service to God. He did not organize the church around social service programs like feeding the poor or caring for the sick. Nor did he focus exclusively on studying the Bible or sharing Holy Communion. He avoided building up his church in the eyes of his parishioners by criticizing other churches and their pastors.

He did not offer people the opportunity to join either the biggest church or the one “known” to include the “better class” of people. Nor did he inspire people to join the congregation that he led by promising them rewards either now or in the next life. He certainly did not try to make church membership easy by promising that they would not be asked to serve on committees that required any effort.

Instead, Pastor Vincent offered to each new person the opportunity to grow in faith, hope and love of God and God’s people. How? With great difficulty is one answer. My colleague and friend stuttered. Nor was it a “hardly noticeable” stutter. If you have ever stuttered you know the agony that goes with having to speak to an individual or to a group. My colleague bore this burden daily.

In that way he may and St. Paul may have been similar. Some scholars believe that St. Paul had a speech impediment. Responding to his critics St. Paul wrote, “For some say, ‘His letters are weighty and forceful, but in person he is unimpressive and his speaking amounts to nothing.’” (2 Cor. 10:10) Others suggest that his speech problem may have been the “thorn in the flesh” that he wrote about in 2 Corinthians 12:7: “in order to keep me from becoming conceited, I was given a thorn in the flesh, a messenger of Satan, to torment me.”

Whether we accept the claim that “a messenger of Satan” was given to St. Paul to “torment him,” living with a speech problem would make it difficult to offer Christ to the world. How do I know? I lived with a significant speech problem for twenty years. I could not imagine enduring what my friend Pastor Vincent endured.

But God expected Pastor Vincent to serve as a pastor with his speech problem. His witness to the grace of God at work in him was powerful if not smooth and polished. God enabled Vincent to serve God by giving him a loving heart, an ability to think deeply about God’s nature and the desire to share Christ with the world. Pastor Vincent and his congregation offered seekers and long-time Christian alike a church family in which Christ was proclaimed, loved and served.

There is not a person whom I have met who does not live with a problem or a burden that weighs on them. Yet none of us are necessarily prevented from loving God by our burdens or excused from serving God because of them. It remains for each follower of Christ to serve God with, and sometimes by means of, whatever burden we carry.

Rev. Larry LaPierre ❖

I have been changed by Janine Payton

My husband Don and I moved into our Campbell home back in April of 1996, with a two year old and one on the way. Now we have an empty nest and are moving to another state.

I grew up attending a fundamentalist church in San Ramon, CA. Never quite fitting in with the crowd. I thought it was me.

Turns out I was just at the wrong church. I am so thankful that we purchased our home on Via Cristobal next door to Dave and Sue Foyle. They showed, in the way they lived, what it means to be a Christian. If not for them I would never have found this wonderful church. It took a couple of years, but Sue invited me to join her for a UMW outing. I had no idea “church ladies” could be so much fun.

Coming to worship to hear Dick Corson preach was actually a joy, not the torture I remember from my youth. It so often felt like he was speaking directly to me and knew exactly what I needed to hear. I have heard that others had the same experience. (and I now get that same feeling with Kathi) My kids and I felt at home here very quickly and I was baptized into the church on July 26, 1998.

I have been changed

I have met and become friends with so many amazing people because of this church. I have had the opportunity to practice my organizational and leadership skills -- things I never knew I had. I taught Sunday school with Myra Wight. My son Eddie and I went on a mission trip to help rebuild homes in Houma, Louisiana. My family helped break ground for the beautiful AMY building. When things were not perfect here most of us stuck together because we know that together WE are the church. Pastors may come and pastors may go but together WE are the church. This was a very big aha moment for me because that was not the feeling I had at my previous church.

Coming from a narrow-minded background, it was an eye opener to learn about what it means to be a Reconciling Church. To join in the discussion at Disciple Bible study with differing opinions and views about what scripture might mean -- and that was encouraged -- was another eye opener!

To use the words of my friend and fellow disciple David Box -- Wow, just Wow.

I am excited for the next chapter in our lives but will miss you all deeply.

I want to thank all of you who have been a part of this life changing 17 years. You have all meant so much to me, to my family. I extend a true invitation to come visit us in Colorado! ❖

KINDNESS

A Nobel Peace Prize winner that Pastor Kathi McShane lifted up in her sermon on August 23, 2015, is the Dalai Lama. He is the spiritual leader of Tibetan Buddhists and is the political leader as well, now working from exile in India since 1959. His Peace Prize was awarded in 1989 for his consistent opposition to the use of violence in the Tibetan campaign for independence.

As he describes his philosophy and attitudes of compassion, he says, "My religion is very simple...My religion is kindness."

Much has been written about kindness, what it is, how to practice kindness. Something called random acts of kindness caught on for awhile. Maybe a new way to look at the practice is Intentional Acts of Kindness.

The following are some notes to myself as a Care Giver that might spark a thought/action for you.

- 1) Stop, look, observe, notice the moment and those in it with you. Be attentive to others and willing to take a detour to help.
- 2) Be willing to extend yourself. Listen to others, move toward them with a sense of caring/ serving. Diverse communities need more understanding. Do unto others as they would have done to them. Do what is needed, not just what I want to do.
- 3) Have a willingness to give of self. This might be harder work and involve a cost in serving others.

On a deeper level, you might glimpse the wholeness of others, connect with their humanity and maybe even create a spiritual bond.

Through intentional acts of kindness, compassion and true caring, transformation is possible. A little bit of kindness can grow to become a big miracle. Want to try?

Men's Group

The Men's Group is currently studying the book, Becoming Human, Core Teachings of Jesus, by Brain C. Taylor. This book discusses the basic lessons Jesus taught in a conversation provoking way. Each short chapter focuses on one lesson such as, "pray for what you need", or "become simple." We discuss a chapter each meeting and have a prayer time.

The Tuesday morning group meets every week from 7:30 to 8:30 am in the Fireside Room. The Thursday group meets the second and fourth Thursdays from 7:00 to 8:00 pm in the Wesley Lounge. Ron Schirle leads both groups. ❖

Automated External Defibrillators (AED's)

You may not know that Campbell UMC has two Automated External Defibrillators (AED's), designed to provide life-saving treatment to someone who is suffering cardiac arrest. One is installed in the Fellowship Hall; and the other, designed especially for children, is located in the Bright Days space.

A number of people in the congregation have been trained to use these devices. We hope, of course, that the need for them will never arise; but being ready to offer this kind of assistance if it is needed is one more way we can care for one another.

There are two reasons for this update at this time:

1. Are you willing to be trained to use the AED equipment? We could use a few more volunteers. This is a valuable way to be ready to serve this congregation and the people in it.
2. Some people have provided in an advance health care directive that they do not wish to be resuscitated in the event of cardiac arrest (a "DNR" provision). If you are concerned about ensuring that this directive is followed should the occasion arise while you are at the church, we are able to post such an instruction with the AED, once you have completed a written instruction.

If you would like to respond to either of these, please contact Pastor Kathi at pastorkathi@campbellunited.org.
